You can replace an HP% rune with a Def% rune but make sure to get good HP% substats. Lushen is probably the most important mon to summon for early game progression because he will be very impactful for you in giants, guild wars, and arena. Other Good Damage Dealer Mons You Can Use: Teshar, the Wind Phoenix Positives: Best wave clear damage dealer for GB10 aside from Lushen. Negatives: No useful leader skill. While Barque is the best option for this slot other good replacements are mons like Loren, Hwa, or Laika. Teshar, the Wind Phoenix While Teshar is just as good as Lushen at clearing the waves she needs high rune quality in order to do it. Late game you will still use Lushen in GB10. Arena Offense, occasionally Guild Wars Offense, NB10 speed runs, and ToA speed clears for the lower floors. Just make sure you build him with decent tank stats good damage and on vampire runes so he heals himself back up. Important Skills, Buffs, And Debuffs: Cleanse - The main reason your team will wipe is because the tower will put defense break on your team and the giant will one shot them. His second skill is a huge single-target nuke that scales off of his attack speed and his third skill allows 2 other members of your team to get an extra attack, by giving your team an extra attack not only are you doing good damage but you are lowering the cooldowns of those team members. Negatives: There are other options that will do more damage and is a hard to obtain Nat 5 mon. Sigmarus, the Water Phoenix Sigmarus is one of the best first or second damage dealers for GB10 because her leader skill will give your team 44% more HP to make up for the additional damage you will take from removing a support. Before you try to build a fast GB10 team make sure your team meets the stat requirements below, you will also need to have summoned or fused a good damage dealer. Teshar also doesn't have an HP leader skill like Sigmarus that is sometimes needed for early game players transitioning into a fast GB10 team. Attack Bar Increase & Speed Buff - These buffs are very strong because they will give your team a few extra turns compared to the GB10 boss, they are especially important if you don't have very high speed on your runes. You can get her from a secret dungeon on Sundays which is light essence farming day. To get Veromos you have to fuse him via the fusion hexagram building. You can get Sigmarus though fusion via the fusion hexagram building so anyone can build her. Full Shannon Monster Guide Darion, the Light Vagabond Darion is a great 5th member for your first GB10 team. Please Note: After the twins nerf I have removed twins based GB10 teams because they're not recommended anymore because there are better options now. Minimum Stats And Requirements: Galleon Stats: HP: 20k+ Def: 700+ Accuracy: 45% Speed: 200+ Get as much ATK and Crit Rate as you can once you meet the above stats Turn Denial DD Stats: HP: 20k+ For Fire Mons, 16k+ for Non-Wind Mons and 14k+ for Wind Mons Def: 600+ Accuracy: 45% Speed: 150+ Get as much ATK and Crit Rate as you can once you meet the above stats Damage Dealers: HP: 16k+ for Non-Wind Mons and 14k+ for Wind Mons Def: 600+ Speed: 150+ As much ATK, Crit Rate, and Crit Dmg as possible The reason you want over 150 speed on your damage dealers is because the GB10 boss has 75 speed so with 150 speed your damage dealers will take two turns before the boss can take a turn even without attack speed slow or attack bar pushback. Without it you will wipe too often because it gives the boss more time to get lucky and land a powerful attack while your team is defense broken. They do 5% of the enemies max HP every turn and since the GB10 boss has so much HP it will speed up your runs quite a bit. She provides a Def break and ATB reduction every turn with multiple hits. Lushen is the only semi-difficult to obtain mon from this team because he is a 4* that you can't farm or fuse. With good luck a fast Hwa can permanently lock down the giant making him completely unable to take a turn and the best part is Hwa's damage scales with her speed. Sigmarus also has a hard hitting 3rd skill that is AOE and scales based on enemy max HP which will help speed up clearing the trash waves and burn down the giant boss due to his large HP. There really are no alternatives to Veromos and I would not recommend trying to progress without him. You can replace Lushen with other strong AOE damage dealers but I recommend using Lushen if you have him and if you don't have him use your summoning stones on the weeks where you can get him. All of her skills scale based on enemy max HP and since dungeon bosses has incredibly high HP she does crazy damage. He also gives your team attack power buff with the same skill as his AOE defense break, no other mon in the game can provide both the speed and reliability of Galleon. Barque, the Wind Pirate Captain Barque is great for your speed GB10 team because he greatly increases the success rate of your runs without slowing them down. Without a reliable defense breaker or two defense breakers your team won't do enough damage which will give the giant boss time to get lucky kills on your monsters. If you were not lucky with your scrolls and didn't get him yet you can save all your exclusive summoning stones from events, guild wars, ToA, ect for a Lushen week and summon for him. You can replace Darion with any other support you may have pulled from scrolls. Skilling up Darion is very easy since you can get Vagabonds from the magic shop and unknown scrolls. Lyn, the Light Amazon Lyn is also a great option because she is the hardest hitting single-target nuker for dungeons. He isn't as reliable as some of the other options I have mentioned above but he does make for speedy runs. When you are looking to add a second damage dealer you will either replace Shannon or Bernard depending on your runes, if your runes have good speed but lacking tankiness then replace Bernard if your runes are lacking speed then use Megan because she has both an attack bar boost and defense buff. There are a lot of other options that will work well instead of Teshar like Sigmarus and Taor. Cleansing the defense break off your team is the most important thing you must do if you want to build a successful GB10 beginner team. Bernard is another mon I would not recommend replacing because he is given to you for free, easy to build, and also very good for other content in the game including PVP even at high levels of guardian. Her second skill also hits very hard because it scales off enemy max HP. If you're having trouble figuring out how to meet the stat requirements, I break down exactly how to rune each monster for GB10 and GB12 in my Rune Farming Guide. Important Skills, Buffs, And Debuffs Defense Break - This debuff is the most important thing to have for a speed team both to make your runs faster and for safe runs. You will need your Galleon to move first so he AOE defense breaks and attack power buffs your team then you need your hard hitting AOE damage dealers (Like Lushen) to move right after him so they can one shot the waves. Hwa, the Fire Rakshasa Hwa is amazing for making your runs safe because her attack bar push reduction on both her skills and attack speed slow on her first skill. This means she will be reducing the bosses attack bar every turn she takes unless it gets resisted. Please Note: Tarq becomes pretty useless once you get better monsters, like the twins (Shaina, Sabrina, Talia). This will allow Galleon to get his Time To Loot up more often and Lushen to get his Amputation Magic up more often to speed up your runs. The other option you can take a hit from the GB10 boss but this will slow down your runs. It also adds a bit of safety to your runs because if Galleon's defense break gets resisted Tarq can Group Hunt with Galleon so he can land his skill one defense break. Even though Hwa is a fire mon it doesn't matter she is still one of the best for making a reliable speed GB10 team, attack bar reduction cannot glance it can only be resisted so try to get her around 40-45% accuracy and about 20k+ HP which shouldn't be an issue as you will be wanting her with some tanky stats for Raids. Turn Denial With 4 Damage Dealers Galleon AOE Damage Dealer #1 AOE Damage Dealer #2 Big Single Target Damage Dealer or 3rd AOE damage dealer Example Team #1: Galleon Lushen (Leader) Lushen Teshar Barque Example Team #2: Galleon Lushen (Leader) Lushen or Teshar Lyn Hwa If you want to build the best GB10 and GB12 team possible you should get my Rune Farming Guide. The best way to get these runes is to farm a lower floor of giants like GB6-8 till your mons reach the minimum requirements listed above. Have at least three of the following: Buff Strip, Attack Break, Defense Buff, Attack Speed Slow, Attack bar Reduction The first step to building a fast GB10 team is to replace Darion or whoever your +1 support was with a damage dealer. Team Composition: Veromos (Leader) Belladon Bernard or Damage Dealer #2 Shannon or Damage Dealer #2 Damage Dealer #1 Here is an example team for this stage of progression: Sigmarus (Leader) Lushen Veromos Belladon Megan (Can replace with Bernard or Shannon if you don't have one) With this team, I recorded over 3,000 GB10 runs with SWARFARM.com when I was still an early game player with decent runes running the Lushen attack power leader. Full Belladon Monster Guide Bernard, the Wind Griffin Bernard is great for a starting GB10 team. Teshar hits extremely hard on the giant boss and has AOE skills to clear the waves fast. AOE Damage - If you don't have at least two AOE damage dealers your runs just won't be as fast. You can use Veromos as a replacement for a turn denial damage dealer because he will just cleanse the defense break off your team so you can take a hit from the GB10 boss but this will slow down your runs. Lushen also has a 33% attack power leader skill you can use once your runes are good enough not to need the HP leader. The only time you should accept less than a 99% success rate is if you're willing to buy tons of packs and just need to burn through your crystals as fast as possible. Negatives: Hard to obtain Nat 5 and no helpful leader skill. Lagmaron, the Wind Chimera Positives: Amazing for similar reasons as his brother Taor and he will have elemental advantage by being a Wind mon. Lushen, the Wind Joker The reason Lushen is the best damage dealer for GB10 is because of his third skill Amputation Magic which ignores defense. He also has an attack speed slow debuff which is great because you will be replacing Shannon who was your only attack speed slow debuffer. Buff Strip - You will also need a buff strip to remove the attack buff off the giant boss, he will do much less damage without the attack buff and have no chance of killing anyone on your team unless there is defense break on them. progression guides Sep 08, 2021 In this Master Guide, I will be breaking down the three stages of Giants Keep. Basement 10 (GB10) teams from your first starter team to a fast team and finally speed teams. If you are a free-to-play player or only spend $30-$100 a month on in-game packs then you should be focusing on building a team with the highest success rate possible to maximize on the number of runes you get for your energy and crystals. He is a backup defense and attack breaker He also decreases all incoming damage by 20% for your other teammates. If you are using Veromos he will have to be fast making him move either first or second on your team, this is one of the reasons he slows down your runs is because he will waste time on each wave. If you happen to summon Megan early on and want to use her make sure you skill her up first because a fully skilled up Shannon is better than an unskilled Megan. Barque makes it possible to get 100% success rate with 35-45 second speed runs because he has 2 skills that will defense break incase Galleon's gets resisted and he has 2 skills that reduces the giants attack bar so he can't take a turn. The top two damage dealer options for this stage is Sigmarus, the Water Phoenix and Lushen, the Wind Joker. By using monsters with attack bar reduction skills you can make it so that the GB10 boss can't take a turn. If you land the attack speed slow and or 2-3 attack bar pushbacks your damage dealers should be able to take 3 turns each before the boss. Laika, the Fire Dragonknight Laika can replace the need for attack bar reduction because he will keep your runs safe by being able to almost solo the GB10 boss with good runs. The goal of this guide is to get your GB10 team to a 100% success rate, ~40 second average runtimes as efficient as possible so you can really maximize on your rune farming and progress your Summoners War account as fast as possible. A detailed guide on how to build the best performing Twins dungeon farming teams. In-depth rune and stat guide that will break down exactly what runes and stats you will need for each monster on your team. If you're looking for more customized advice based on your accounts monsters and runes take a look at our live coaching membership.

Galleon, the Water Pirate Captian Galleon is amazing in a speed GB10 team because he has a single-target defense break and an AOE defense break that can't glance because it does no damage. Theomars, the Water Ifrit Positives: Hits pretty hard and has a backup defense break. Here's why: Lushen, the Wind Joker Lushon is pretty much considered the best damage dealer for GB10 from early game to late game you will never replace him, most speed teams even include two Lushens. (Galleons 30% attack bar pushback isn't enough). If you build Hwa with over 225 speed she will get three turns before the giant can even move (GB10 boss has 75 speed), the chances that the giant will resist three times in a row is very unlikely. She breaks the giants' defense Strips the giant's attack buff Boosts your teams attack bar by 30% Heals your team for 30% of their max HP Belladeon is very easy to get and fully skill up. Defense buff, attack break, and buff strip are great fail safes to have because with all three of these up your team will be able to survive a hit from the GB10 boss even if you get unlucky enough to have the boss attack right after your team gets defense broken. He should be your first or second 6* (you can 6* lapis for farming first) and he should be the first mon you fully skill up with devilmons. Speed Team (30 secs - 1 min runs) After you have been farming GB10 and/or DB10 for at least a few months you can look at building a speed team. Attack Power Buff - This buff is important for the same reasons as defense break, it greatly increases your teams' damage. Does good damage while providing a brand, attack power, and attack speed buff. Provides an attack speed slow and reduces enemy attack bar to make your runs safer. Lushen is so good for GB10 because his third skill is AOE ignore defense so he can one shot the trash waves with no defense break or attack buff, this will speed up your runs significantly because the trash waves are what makes your runs take so long. Gives your team an attack power buff so they do more damage. In order to make a speed team work you have to kill the giant's boss before he gets a turn, so without a reliable defense break and attack power buff, your team won't be able to do enough damage. Negatives: She is a Nat 5 star mon that has to be summoned so she is not obtainable. The main reasons she is better than Shannon is she will strip the giants attack buff which is better than glancing debuff and her first skill does 5% of the bosses max HP in damage which will speed up your runs. Building a 100% success rate speed team isn't about having overpowered natural 5-stars (nat 5's), it's all about having team synergy and the right rune builds. Starter Team (3 mins - 5 mins runs) Who should build this kind of team: Anyone who is not currently able to farm GB10 on auto with above a 90% success rate should build this exact starter team. Do not try to replace Belladeon, while it is possible to do GB10 without her she is better than any other options while also being easy to obtain and great in other areas of the game. Negatives: There are other options that will do more damage, no useful leader skill and she is a hard to obtain Nat 5 mon. Attack Break - This debuff will significantly lower the giants attack power and make it even harder for him to kill anyone on your team. He provides: Backup defense break incase Belladeon doesn't land it Breaks the giant's attack power Boosts your teams attack bar by 30% Increases your teams' speed by 33% so you take more turns compared to the GB10 boss. You can get Darion from a secret dungeon on Sundays which is light essence farming day. It's not as important because defense break gives a much higher damage output. Optional: Attack speed slow debuff is also very useful Team Composition: If you want to build a reliable GB10 speed team you are going to need a Galleon because he is the only reliable AOE defense breaker and attack buffer in the game. Megan will provide the attack power and defense buff as well and instead of an attack speed slow Megan will boost your teams attack bar. An upgrade to Shannon would be Megan, the Water Mystic Witch. Laika also cannot glance so being the fire element doesn't lower his damage vs water mons. Shannon is given to you through the story quest line and is also found in the magic shop so skilling her up will be very easy. Poseidon, the Water Sea Emperor Positives: Does decent AOE damage for clearing the waves and has a 33% attack power leader skill if you don't have a Lushen. Important Skills, Buffs, And Debuffs: Cleanse - At this stage, you still have to rely on cleansing the defense break because you will not have the damage to kill the giants boss before he gets a turn. You get Bernard from doing the storyline quests and can easily farm skillups for him in Tamor Desert. Defense Break - This debuff significantly lowers the giants defense allowing your team to kill him quicker. Also has a nice 24% crit rate leader skill in case you're lacking good crit rate runes on your damage dealers. You will also need to fully skill up all your mons otherwise your success rate will likely be too low to efficiently farm GB10. GB10 also drops some of the best rune types in the game that are usable in every aspect of the game, unlike other dungeons like NB10 which drop runes that are mostly only used in PvP content. Heals - You most likely will still need a healer with only one or two damage dealers. Don't bring two healers because typically you will wipe because the giant one shot some of your team members, so you want to focus on damage reduction not healing. Here were the results: Average Success Rate: 98.6% Average Clear Time: 1:45 mins If you don't have Lushen or want to build an even better team than the examples I listed you should consider getting my Rune Farming Guide, in there I have 70+ teams broken down into a tier list so you will know the best possible team you're able to build with the monsters you currently have. If you have single target damage dealers moving before your AOE damage dealers they will just waste time using their skills on each wave when you could have just one shot the wave with an AOE damage dealer. Defense Break - This debuff is even more important for a fast team because you need to kill the boss quickly before your damage dealers die. Why is Farming GB10 Fast and Efficiently So Important? Tarq, the Water Hellhound Tarq is a great option for free-to-play players or anyone that has not gotten lucky with their summons because he is an easy to farm and build 2 star mon. His passive gives him elemental advantage and endure buff that makes it very easy for him to survive. His passive makes it so that he can only take 35% of his max HP as damage each time the boss hits him. Charlotte, the Wind Occult Girl Positives: Does decent AOE damage for clearing the waves. She is also a Wind mon with a crazy good 33% crit rate leader skill. Giant's Keep, Basement 10 (GB10) should be your first major goal in SW because runes are by far the most important thing to focus on, without great runes you won't be able to succeed in any area of the game. She also puts up Attack Speed slow on the boss making it even harder for him to get a turn. I would highly recommend building her for your semi-speed team and also using her in your first full-speed team. Continuous Damage - DoTs are important because they will be your main source of damage. If you already have 1 starter team capable of farming GB10 reliably, scroll down to either the Fast Team or Speed team sections. Negatives: Has no AOE skills for speed clearing the waves. Loren, the Light Cow Girl Loren is one of the best monsters to the game for making your GB10 team safe and reliable. Just make sure to do hard or hell mode for higher inugami drop rates. Shannon, the Wind Pixie Shannon provides a ton of useful buffs and debuffs that the rest of this team is lacking. His second skill can also one shot the wave if your Galleon uses Time To Loot first. She is also a good investment because she is amazing for DB10 (the next dungeon you will be working towards) and she is good for the fire rift beast you will need to farm later in the game. Hraesvelg, the Wind Barbarian King Positives: Great utility/damage dealer hybrid. Fast Team (1 min - 2 min 30 second runs) After you have farmed GB10 for a while and improved your runes you can look at speeding up your runs by adding in one or two damage dealers. You can do a speed team without AoE damage but you will notice a significant increase in the time it takes to clear GB10. Since you are no longer using tanky mons with damage reduction or sustain you have to kill the boss before he can attack your team with his powerful attack. Sigmarus adds a few safety precautions to your runs by freezing the trash waves and attack power breaking the boss. Taor, the Water Chimera Positives: Amazing GB10 damage dealer because he has both hard hitting AOE and single target damage skills. The main reason you would use Teshar instead of a second or third Lushen is because she hits harder than Lushen on the boss stage. For a reliable speed team, you are going to need high rune quality, a Galleon, and 3-4 damage dealers. If you're looking for customized advice based on your accounts monsters and runes take a look at our live coaching membership. The first priority should always be to get as close to a 100% success rate as possible before increasing the speed of your runs. Heals - You will need a powerful healer to sustain your team, make sure your healer has strong heals. Greatly reduces incoming damage by buffing your teams' defense Increasing the giants chance to land a glancing hit AOE attack speed slows the GB10 boss and crystals. You can also skill her up by farming Garen Forest, Telain Forest, or Faimon Volcano. Can take a while to get if you don't get lucky and get him on your first ifrit summon from guild wars. Optional: glancing hit, shield, attack speed slow, attack bar reduction, attack buff Team Composition: Veromos (Leader) Belladeon Bernard Shannon +1 Support (I highly recommend Darion) Veromos, the Dark Ifrit Veromos is one of the best mons to build for early game players for the following reasons: +33% HP leader skill, early game you won't have any mons with good leader skills Continuous damage on his first skill that does a lot of damage to high HP targets (like the giants boss) An AoE stun on his second skill to help keep your team alive on trash waves His passive removes one debuff from your whole team each time he takes a turn. (More about why Laika works down below) The third thing you will need to do is to "speed tune" your team.
